MEXICAN REFUGEES
BECOME SYMPATHETIC
AS THEY UNDERSTAND

Girl Making Aviator's Wings as Helped to Earn Living Wage
By Y. M. C. A.

San Antonio, Texas.—Inability to speak English and hesitancy in calling on Americans for aid because of the barrier of language, have been found to be prolific causes of distrust on the part of Mexican refugees in San Antonio. When they have been removed, as has been frequently the case, by the International Institute, a division of the Young Women's Christian Association, the refugees become loyal and devoted citizens.

One Mexican family of high degree among the refugees, was stripped of property and arrived at the city practically destitute. The only earner in the family was a young woman, and her only income was derived from the sale of aviators' wings, emblems which she embroidered in silver with surpassing skill. The language barrier, however, prevented her reaping a proper reward for her work for the only place where she knew where to sell them was conducted by one who, taking advantage of her ignorance, paid her only twenty-five cents for each pair.

Facing destitution, the entire family grew to hate their surroundings and were so bitter toward Americans that they sought to drive a visiting institute worker from the home. But speaking the language and perceiving the bitter spirit, she stayed, surmising she was desperately needed. Ascertaining the conditions, she found suitable employment for the daughter, whose income now substantially supports the family.

"German propaganda would have found a fertile field in their hearts," the secretary said, "had it reached them in their darkest hour. Now they believe in the honesty and goodness, the integrity of purpose of the American people and government."

Fifteen Foyers des Alliees for girls working in French munition plants are now maintained by the Young Women's Christian Association. They provide entertainment, reading matter and the cheer of a homelike comfortable house, presided over by a woman who specializes in and understands the needs of these workers.

Eighty-five Hostess Houses are now maintained in army cantonments throughout the United States, running smoothly and efficiently conducted. Twenty more are in course of construction at points where they are urgently asked by the ranking officers.

CHLORIDE NOTES

Miss Grace M. Birch of Oak Park, Illinois, spent a few days with Mrs. Annie A. Sage and Ray E. Sage. Miss Birch recently returned to her home in Illinois, to see her brother before he left for OVER THERE. A card was received from him saying that he had arrived safely.

Miss Birch will spend the winter in Los Angeles and will be welcomed by her many friends.

Ottis Willoughby who left Chloride in the spring for Camp Cody returned Monday on indefinite furlough. He has gained about fifteen pounds and is looking like camp life agreed with him. His many friends are glad to see him return.

J. C. Martin, deputy collector was in Chloride for a few days giving the population the once over, as Uncle Sam needs more money.

Chas Fauth returned to Chloride from California where he has been working in the ship yards. Mr. Fauth is now working for the Arizona Ore Reduction Company.

Since quail season opened there have been a number of stories of how if the shell has been O. K. he could have got the limit. But they are giving the poor quail a run for their lives just the same.

V. F. Bledsoe of Phoenix was a Chloride visitor recently.

ATTORNEY GENERAL RULES MARRIED WOMEN MAY TEACH

Married women may be employed in the schools of Arizona according to an opinion rendered by the Attorney General of Arizona to the State Council of Defense.

ment of married teachers is prohibited. Owing to the shortage of teachers, a movement is on foot to repeal such laws as the Country needs the services of women in work to which they have been trained.

The attorney general states that we have no law touching upon the subject and, therefore, married women may be employed in our schools upon the same terms and conditions as if they were single.

Where Quality Meets Price

The Valve-in-head engine illustrated here, like all internal combustion engines, requires an oil that holds its lubricating qualities at cylinder heat, burns clean in the combustion chamber and goes out with exhaust. Zerolene fills these requirements perfectly, because it is correctly refined from selected California asphalt-base crude.

ZEROLENE

The Standard Oil for Motor Cars

It Keeps the Engine Young!

Zerolene keeps the engine young—full-powered, smooth-running, and economical in fuel and oil consumption—because it is correctly refined from selected California asphalt-base crude. Gives better lubrication with less carbon. Made in several consistencies. Get our Correct Lubrication Chart covering your car.
